Facts & FIGURES

Many years ago, the AACS (American Association of Christian Schools) established an SGO (Scholarship Granting Organization) and has lobbied for a tax credit for families who choose a private school. That came to fruition when Congress passed the president's budget bill. Included in the bill is the EFTC (Education Freedom Tax Credit). There are many SGOs. The SGO for the AACS is called ACCORD Kids. It is overseen by the AACS but has a separate guidance committee and leadership. Through ACCORD Kids, you can donate $1,700 as a tax credit. The tax credit applies to everyone – not just people with children. In fact, it will probably be easier for families with no children living at home to donate. A simple way to think about it: if you pay federal income taxes, you either pay the federal government, or you can choose to donate $1,700 of what you owe to an SGO ($1,700 for the husband and $1,700 for the spouse). Either way, you are paying $1,700 to someone. If you donate to an SGO, it becomes a tax credit and reduces your tax liability. Believers can support Christian education with little to no effort. When you donate, you can designate a school (not the student); then the students apply for a scholarship. So, you are helping children and perhaps even your own children or grandchildren.
